

Straits Financial

Announcing the Straits Financial Structured Products Division

Your clients can leverage our structured product expertise at no extra cost using their current account, and you retain 100% of the net commission revenue.

Let the Straits Structured Product Division help your clients create professional risk management strategies that are tailored to meet their requirements. This unique offering uses OTC like products to create hedging portfolios specific to the customers' needs. Our initial offering will be Energy and Fertilizer, with Metals, Grains, and Oilseeds coming in the near future.

As Straits continues to expand its offering, we believe this product will help you and your clients create the tools necessary to maximize profit potential while controlling risk.

Using Structured Markets is simple for your clients.

This specialty product is meant to compliment your current product line – Not replace what you and your team offers

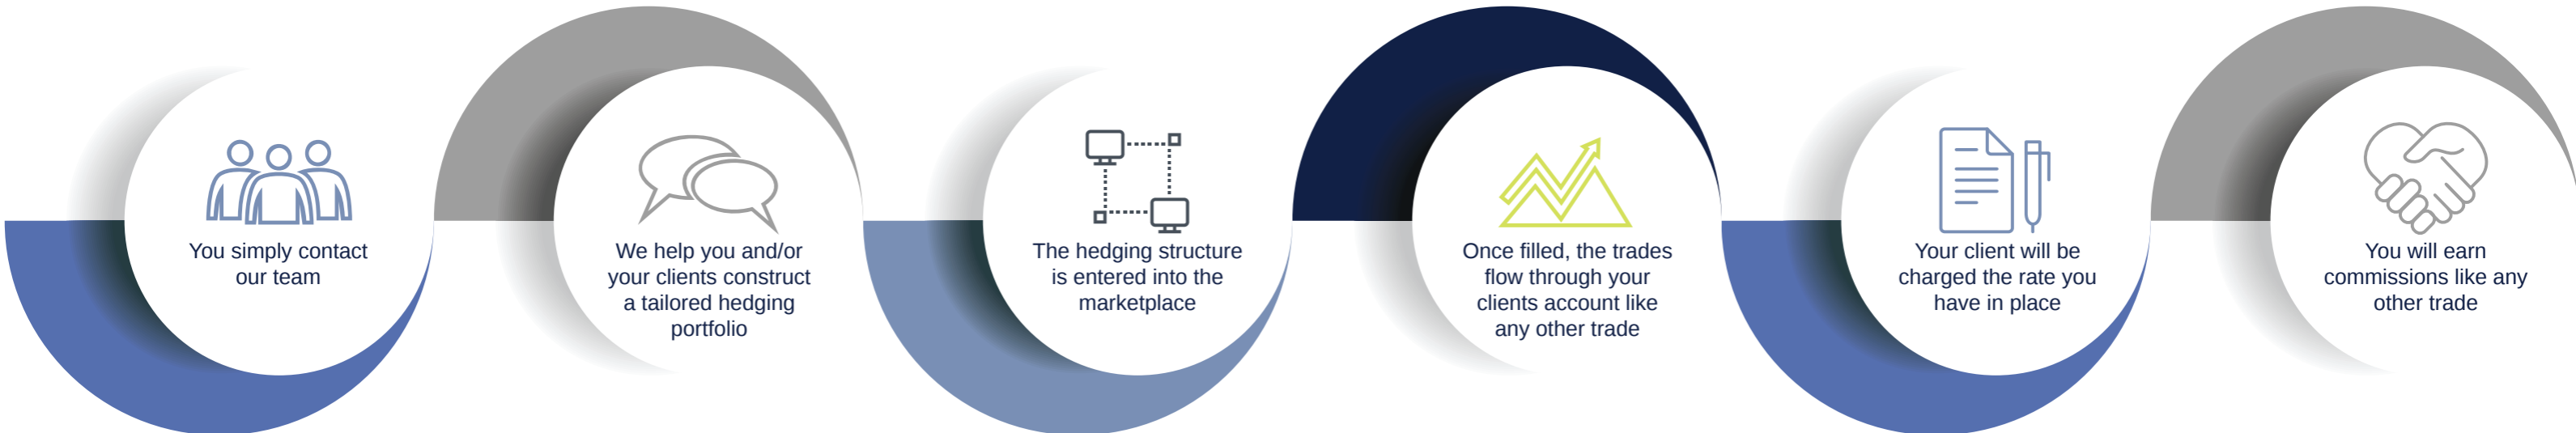

Sometimes clients need an alternative structure to produce a unique hedging portfolio. The Straits Financial Structured Product team, in consultation with you and your client, will devise a risk management strategy in order to address the client's specific requirements. Our team does not take power of attorney. Instead they work with you to create a basket of trades that you may then discuss with your client. Should your client want to execute the strategy, you simply place the order with the team like you would any other order desk.

We want our brokers and clients to have products that allow them to meet their hedging goals. We believe this new division will assist in creating additional choices to give them a meaningful alternative to some of the basic hedging strategies usually employed. Our team watches these strategies and will assist in re-balancing should the market or clients' needs change.

Our Straits Financial Structured Products Division has relations with producers and end-users in the energy and agriculture sectors to provide our customers with the latest news and to assist us in our market advice.

The Straits Structured Products Model provides customization and control. Through the Clearport platform, creative "OTC-like" transactions are available within the secure credit environment of the CME Group exchange. With no long term contracts, and no fees for analysis, strategies, or execution, you and your clients are free to trade when and where you'd like.

Exchanges included in our trading models are: CME Group (NYMEX, COMEX, CBOT, CME). Get in touch with us today for your free market consultation.
